

Lim Jeongah

As an ordinary person who lives a normal life, I dream of a departure from everything by portraying celebrities.

As I picture myself in the spotlight, I sprinkle, and scrap colors together, and it reveals a face of a celebrity, with colorful pieces strewn around on canvas. It is as glamorous and provocative as if it were a celebrity. I draw a portrait of a famous person, but I want to live a special life as a celebrity in a painting, so my painting is a portrait of a famous person. Painting, as I see it, is my dream, but my means of realising a special self that I can't achieve, is also my proxy.

For a deviation that normal person can feel, I still draw them today.
