

About the Artist

Lynette ORZLOWSKI

Born in Melbourne, Australia. Lynette's love of the creative has been a driving force and has such mastered many different mediums and holds a wealth of information on a great number of mediums and substrates. The wonder of colour and light has been a constant inspiration for her now for over three decades of painting.

She has established herself in the art community through solo exhibitions and group shows as a highly respected painter and she is often invited to demonstrate her craft Intrastate, Interstate and Internationally. She has taught painting professionally and privately for over two decades and her commitment and passion for art is revealed in her involvement in several art societies and committees. She has been a sort after art show judge for several select art societies and expos throughout the years.

Lynette's disciplined approach in her study of the horse has been greatly emphasized by spending countless hours at events, shows and tracing through the sometimes-muddy paddocks. Inspired by what she sees, Lynette then goes back in to the studio, transforming them into two – dimensional artworks, all the while putting great emphasis on the technical execution.

Anyone who appreciates classic elegance cannot but be drawn in by what she creates.

In October 2015 Lynette had the opportunity to film an episode with artist & TV presenter Graeme Stevenson from 'Put some colour in your life' which aired on free to air TV (4ME) on March 6th, 2016 (Season 12 / Episode 07) now available for viewing on YouTube
