

Jeff Murray

Artist description

“The journey is the reward” and when taking a visual tour into the intricate world of Jeff’s work, you certainly won’t want this journey to end any time soon! The depth he captures when creating his work allows the viewer to get lost when gazing into each new piece. He encourages the viewer to “look closer”, as he likes to magnify the smallest of details with nothing but a pen!

Bio and artist journey

Jeff takes inspiration from personal experiences and interests throughout his life, with the world and its wonders being the main subject matter. His “visual journals” capture the way he sees the world, and what it means to him. These very much reflect his journey over time. Focusing heavily on architecture, landscapes, history and nature, his art speaks to all art lovers so that they can connect with each and every piece in a different way.

Jeff’s works are also fun to engage with, as he likes to test the viewer by hiding things within each piece. He often hides these things in multiples of 7, which is a unique and personal number to him. These “Easter eggs” show Jeff’s playful side and how his mind works with wanting to discover more.

Since graduating in Graphic Design in 2007, he pursued his ambition to travel. This journey fuelled new ideas and inspirations for his works and led him onto the path of becoming a full-time professional artist. When living in New Zealand in 2012, he started to showcase and sell his works through local galleries, artisan markets and solo shows. His artistic journey has since gone from strength to strength, with larger shows, exhibitions and art fairs all over the world offering him new and exciting opportunities. He now has a gallery and studio space from home, where his Sales Director and partner Laura takes care of his business, allowing him to spend more time creating. The demand for Jeff’s works has grown rapidly, with substantial sales, awards, and commissioned projects, he is constantly busy! He wants to continue pushing the envelope with his works, to see what else he can discover and where they will take him.

So why not join Jeff on this journey, and simply “look closer” into his intricate and inspiring world!
